Georgia Historical Society presents

Annette Gordon-Reed

2022 VINCENT J. DOOLEY DISTINGUISHED TEACHING FELLOW

The Georgia Historical Society presents a conversation with Pulitzer Prize and National Book Award-winning historian and author Annette Gordon-Reed. Join us for an exploration of Gordon-Reed's career, including the research and reception of The Hemingses of Monticello: An American Family (winner of the 2009 Pulitzer Prize in History and the 2008 National Book Award), Thomas Jefferson and Sally Hemings: An American Controversy, and On Juneteenth, her latest book, and her work's impact on modern scholarship.

Preceding the conversation, she will be inducted as the newest Vincent J. Dooley Distinguished Teaching Fellow, in recognition of her service to the field of history and support of the mission of the Georgia Historical Society.
